

Hugh Hodgson School of Music – University of Georgia

Assistant Professor, Tenure-Track of Piano

DATE OF APPOINTMENT August 2017

RANK AND SALARY Assistant Professor, tenure track. Salary commensurate with credentials, experience, and reputation.

QUALIFICATIONS Doctorate (degree conferred no later than July 1, 2017) or professional equivalent in piano performance with advanced knowledge of piano literature; productive career as performer of solo and chamber literature; experience in and ability to teach collaborative piano is preferred; demonstrated excellence in teaching, and a desire to contribute to a dynamic, holistic music program located in a city known for its music and arts culture.

RESPONSIBILITIES

- Artist-teacher of piano responsible for instruction of students from undergraduate through doctoral levels
- Teach solo and collaborative piano
- Teach piano literature classes, including survey classes and in-depth topical graduate seminars
- Coach chamber music
- Assist in student recruitment
- Productive career as a research/creative scholar and performer
- Other duties as assigned

TO APPLY Electronic submission of application materials should be received by November 15, 2016, and until the position is filled. Apply online at <http://facultyjobs.uga.edu/postings/1321>, providing a cover letter, vita, three references, and an unofficial transcript. Please do not send recordings at this time. Candidates moving forward in the search will be asked to provide these materials at a later date. References will be solicited (by the School of Music) via the online application or from a third-party credentialing service like Interfolio. Optionally, candidates can upload these letters into the application system. Questions about the application process can be directed to Ms. Edith Hollander, somadmin@uga.edu; questions about the position can be directed to: Dr. Martha Thomas, mlthomas@uga.edu, phone 706-542-3737, fax: 706-542-2773

The University of Georgia is the first state-chartered university in America. It is a comprehensive land/sea grant university located in Athens, Georgia, 75 miles northeast of downtown Atlanta, the state capital (www.visitathensga.com, www.uga.edu). Georgia is well known for its quality of life in regard to both outdoor and urban activities (www.georgia.gov).

The Hugh Hodgson School of Music (www.music.uga.edu) is home to over 500 students and a faculty of 70. The Hodgson School is part of the Performing and Visual Arts Complex that includes the five-story music building and the Performing Arts Center. Undergraduate programs include the Bachelor of Arts degree and the Bachelor of Music degree with majors in composition, music education, music therapy, theory, and performance. Graduate offerings include the Master of Arts, Master of Music, Master of Music Education, Doctor of Education, Doctor of Musical Arts and Doctor of Philosophy degrees, with majors in performance, conducting, music composition, musicology/ethnomusicology, and music education.

The Franklin College of Arts and Sciences, its many units, and the University of Georgia are committed to increasing the diversity of its faculty and students, and sustaining a work and learning environment that is inclusive. The University is an EEO/AA institution and all applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, ethnicity or national origin, religion, age, genetic information, disability, or protected veteran status.